Have you searched high and low for products that look real and actually stay on?? I have done this all my life. I can finally say I think I found a select few that actually work :) I don't need to tell you how hard it can be to stay positive and feel beautiful every day when you have Alopecia. Even today, its not as acceptable as people tell you it is. But that shouldn't mean you need to stop living. You can still look beautiful and turn some heads with a little extra help! I hope our products give you that extra bounce of confidence in your step and bring all the happiness you deserve.

Please feel free to contact me if you need help with product or just need someone to talk to who understands how you feel.
